Overview:

The Department of Surgery Grand Rounds serves as a cornerstone of continuing medical education, fostering a culture of academic excellence and lifelong learning for surgeons, residents, and medical students. This as needed conference provides a dedicated forum for the dissemination of the latest advancements in surgical practice, the critical analysis of complex cases, and the exploration of cutting-edge research.

Overall Objectives:

- 1 Formulate evidencebased management strategies for complex surgical conditions by integrating the latest clinical research, guidelines, and technological innovations discussed;
- 2 Describe the pathophysiology and clinical presentation of covered clinical topics;
- 3 Discuss surgical management and evaluation of outcomes;
- 4 Describe etiology for complications and discuss management and prevention.

Learning Objectives:

- 1 describe the culture of winning teams
- 2 delineate strategies to change culture
- 3 discuss methods to promote teamwork and collaboration
